Whether you're in manufacturing, life sciences, environmental technology, engineering, energy, information technology, or other industry sector, JARI can help you establish and grow your company, and, in most instances, with no fee for our services. For example:

- Find and apply for loans, grants, or other investments for land, building construction, equipment, inventory, working capital, or other business start-up expenses.
- Identify the right location for your new or growing business in one of our three business parks, our JARI Center for Business Development incubator, or numerous other sites and privately owned buildings.
- Assess your training needs and pursue funding mechanisms to provide needed training.
- Develop your business strategy in one-on-one counseling sessions.
- Match your products and services with government contracting opportunities.

JARI' works with numerous groups and individuals to provide value-added services to businesses seeking our help. We can connect you with the right people in government, commercial lending, academia, equity investing (angels and venture capital), real estate, and other regional, state, or federal economic development groups. For example:

- Provide a network of business and technical interns from our colleges and universities.
- Work with local initiatives to develop enhanced telecommunications capabilities in our region.
- Collaborate with legislators representing our region to ensure business needs are being communicated effectively.
- Identify federal, state, or private programs that can provide funding or services to your business or to out region.
- Promote your business and our region in various functions and media outlets.
